

Understanding South Asian Minorities in Hong Kong

Understanding South Asian Minorities in Hong Kong

John Nguyet Erni

Lisa Yuk-ming Leung

香港大學出版社

HONG KONG UNIVERSITY PRESS

Hong Kong University Press
The University of Hong Kong
Pokfulam Road
Hong Kong
www.hkupress.org

© Hong Kong University Press 2014

ISBN 978-988-8208-34-0 (Hardback)

ISBN 978-988-8208-35-7 (Paperback)

All rights reserved. No portion of this publication may be reproduced or transmitted in any form or by any means, electronic or mechanical, including photocopy, recording, or any information storage or retrieval system, without prior permission in writing from the publisher.

British Library Cataloguing-in-Publication Data

A catalogue record for this book is available from the British Library.

10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2 1

Printed and bound by XXXX in Hong Kong, China

Contents

List of Tables and Illustrations	vii
Acknowledgments	xi
1. Introduction: Who are the South Asian Minorities in Hong Kong?	1
• Introduction: Goals of This Book	1
• A Critical Multicultural Approach	2
• An Overview of the Book	11
2. A Cultural History of South Asians in Hong Kong	17
• Introduction: Retelling the Histories of South Asians in Hong Kong	17
• A History of Indian, Pakistani and Nepalese Residents in Hong Kong	18
• Institutional Histories	26
• Some Life Stories of Indians, Pakistanis and Nepalese Families	33
• Conclusion	44
• Discussion Questions	46
3. South Asian Minorities and the Mainstream Media	51
• Introduction	51
• Images of South Asians in the News	52
• Portrayals of South Asians in Advertisements and Films	57
• Media Consumption among South Asian Youth	64
• The Fragile Development of “Ethnic Media” in Hong Kong	70
• Conclusion	74
• Discussion Questions	75
4. Changing a Culture of Discrimination: A Critical Understanding of Hong Kong’s Anti-racism Law	81
• Introduction	81

•	The International Human Rights Framework to Struggle against Racism: A Brief Summary	84
•	The Road (and Obstacles) to Establishing Hong Kong's First Anti-Racism Law	89
•	To Protect or Not to Protect: Empowerment, Disillusionment, and the Race Discrimination Ordinance	103
•	Conclusion	112
•	Discussion Questions	114
5.	Education of South Asian Youth: The Case of Delia Memorial School	117
•	Introduction	117
•	Education of South Asian Youth in Hong Kong: Issues and Problems	119
•	Schooling for Ethnic Minority Students: The Example of Delia Memorial School (Broadway)	137
•	Conclusion	147
•	Discussion Questions	147
6.	Economic Self-determination: Ethnic Minority Small-Business Enterprises	151
•	Introduction	151
•	Understanding Ethnic Businesses	154
•	Case Studies of Ethnic Business Enclaves in Yuen Long	161
•	Case Study in Yau Tsim Mong	171
•	Conclusion	174
•	Discussion Questions	176
7.	A Review of Academic and Policy Research on Ethnic Minorities in Hong Kong	189
•	Introduction	189
•	Historical Context for the Emergence of EM Research in Hong Kong	189
•	NGO and Policy Research	192
•	Academic Research in the Social Sciences	199
•	Cultural Research	206
•	Conclusion	213
•	Discussion Questions	217
	Coda: A Multicultural Action Proposal for Hong Kong	221
	Index	229

Tables and Illustrations

Tables

1.1	“Ethnic Minorities” Population in Hong Kong, 2001, 2006, and 2011	5
1.2	Theoretical Assertions in a Critical Multiculturalist Approach	10
1.3	Comparison between “Benevolent Multiculturalism” and “Critical Multiculturalism”	11
2.1	A Comparison of the Salary Level of Police Constables in 1855, 1885, and 1915 across Ethnic Groups	19
2.2	The Number of Policemen in Hong Kong by Ethnicity from the Late Nineteenth to Early Twentieth Century	19
3.1	Mr. “Q BoBo”: A Filmography	61–62
3.2	Selected Survey Results on EMS’ Baseline Media Viewing Habits	65
3.3	RTHK Programs in South Asian Languages (as of June 2013)	71
4.1	The Aims of the UN Human Rights Treaty System	84
4.2	The United Nations’ Global Actions against Racism, 1948–2009	87
4.3	Comparison of the Bill of Rights Ordinance and the Basic Law of Hong Kong SAR	91
4.4	Common Situations of Racial Discrimination in the Workplace in Hong Kong	92
4.5	Caseload of the Equal Opportunities Commission, 2009–2013	94
4.6	ICERD Ratification Record in Asia (status as of August 2013)	96
4.7	Notable Results of Surveys on Public Attitudes on Racial Discrimination Commissioned by the Home Affairs Bureau, 2004 and 2005	99
4.8	A Timeline of the Historical Evolution of the Race Bill in Hong Kong	100–103

5.1	School Attendance Rates of Ethnic Minorities by Age Group and Sex, 2001, 2006 and 2011 (Excluding Foreign Domestic Helpers)	120
5.2	Educational Attainment to Post-secondary Level (Highest Level Attended) for Various Ethnic Groups in Hong Kong Aged 15 and Over, 2001, 2006 and 2011	121
5.3	Major Governmental Initiatives for Ethnic Minorities of Hong Kong	129–130
5.4	The List of “Designated Schools” in the 2011–12 School Year	133
5.5	Student Enrollments in Delia Memorial School (Broadway), 2011–12 and 2012–13	140
6.1	Population by Ethnicity and District Council District, 2011	155
6.2	Working Population by Ethnicity, Industry, Occupation and Economic Characteristics	156–157
6.3	Working Population by Ethnicity by Industry, Occupation and Economic Characteristics (Jordan)	158
6.4	Working Population by Selected District Council Districts, Selected Ethnic Groups and Place of Work	159
6.5	List of Ethnic Shops in Yuen Long	179–180
7.1	A Sample of NGO Research Studies on Ethnic Minorities in Hong Kong, 2000–2008	193–197
8.1	A Critical Multicultural Action Proposal for Hong Kong	222–226

Figures

2.1	Masjid inside the Islamic Centre at Oi Kwan Road of the Islamic Union of Hong Kong	30
2.2	Foyer of the Islamic Centre	31
2.3	Habib Shah (left), his son Tahir (top), and family	35
2.4	Artilleries Unit at the Fanling Quarters where Pakistanis recruited by the British government served in the 1950s	36
2.5	Mr. Zahir stands next to a painting about the Fanling Quarters	37
2.6	The area of Fanling Police Quarters where the “Fanling boys” grew up, and where Muslim Indians were settled by the British government	39
2.7	The Tetnjani family	43

5.1	A pamphlet on “Support Services for Ethnic Minorities” by the Race Relations Unit	131
6.1 and 6.2	People of many different ethnicities gather in the area around the Kik Yeung Road Football Pitch to the Fuk Yip Building on the other side of the pitch	162
6.3	On Sundays and public holidays, many Filipinas and Indonesians spend their time near Healy Plaza	163
6.4	The Hong Kong Nepalese Federation	166
6.5	Khairn Hussein’s barbershop on the second floor of Hop Yick Commercial Centre	169
6.6	Mr Shris in his internet café in Jordan	172
6.7	Nepalese children come to the center after school for tuition with help and guidance from the younger Shris	174
6.8	Floor plan of Tung Yick Commercial Centre (2nd floor)	181
6.9	Floor plan of Tung Yick Commercial Centre (3rd floor)	182
6.10	Map of Healy Plaza/ Fuk Yip Cluster	183
6.11	Floor plan of Hop Yik Commercial Centre (1st floor)	184
6.12a	Map of ethnic cluster in Jordan	185
6.12b	List of shops in Jordan	186

Acknowledgments

The work described in this book was fully supported by a three-year GRF grant from the Research Grants Council of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region, China (Project No. HKBU340411). We are also grateful to our respective academic units—Department of Humanities and Creative Writing at Hong Kong Baptist University and Department of Cultural Studies at Lingnan University—for their support, including the small grants provided by them as a form of recognition of our work.

We thank Chris Munn and Sherlon C. Y. Ip of the Hong Kong University Press, of course for their editorial assistance, but also for their pleasant openness to allow us to freely craft the shape, rigor, and argument of the book. Connie Cheng, our research assistant, was a lifeline in this project, offering her tireless help in a timely and efficient manner. She was always cheerful and patient with us. Research help also came from Louis Ho, Raymond Tsang, Wai-yiu Lam and Daren Leung, who participated in various aspects of the research.

In the process of writing this book, we have had the opportunity to reflect on “Hong Kong identity” as a whole, and to question the invisible and taken-for-granted cultural and ethnic imaginations behind the dominant story we tell ourselves about the city and the people who reside here. As a mixed Filipino-Vietnamese-Chinese, John Erni came to reacquaint himself with his own ethnic and diasporic biography. Feeling a concurrent sense of closeness to and distance from Hong Kong society—an attractive disposition—he wrote this book for the ethnic minority communities, admiring their creative ways of living with, perhaps, a similar kind of energetic ambiguity toward our city. Erni also dedicates this book to his parents and siblings, as well as to Matthew.

Lisa Leung wishes to thank, first of all, John Erni, for inspiring her in the first place that advocacy work could inform research (which can in turn inform teaching); also for the academic as well as linguistic enlightenment he opened up for her; and for his patience and assistance throughout the years. She wishes to thank the postman who first inscribed in her a sense of “strangeness,” when he asked her where her master was at the door. She is also indebted to all the EM interviewees over the years. Their stories of survival in Hong Kong illustrate a will to life, and the creative tactics they employ provide more colors to this homogenous community. Thanks also to the local ethnic and religious federations and organizations, such as the Indian Chamber of Commerce, the Nepalese Federation, the Kowloon Mosque, the Chomolongma Community Centre, Lady MacLehose Centre, YMCA (Sham Shui Po Centre), Christian Action, Christian Family Service Centre, Christian Aid, and UNISON for their generous help. Heartfelt thanks especially to Richard Simmons and Anneke Coppoolse who helped to proofread some of the chapters. Last but not least, Lisa dedicates this book to her family and friends, who have provided a stronghold and unquestioning support all along. They have let her be, and become.